

Clark Frye is a Research Associate in the Joint Advanced Warfighting Division of the Institute for Defense Analyses in Alexandria, VA. At IDA, Clark focuses on security cooperation, emerging technology, and the future of warfare, with a regional focus on Russia and Eastern Europe.

Clark completed his Masters in Law and Diplomacy at the Fletcher School at Tufts University in 2017. He was previously a demographic researcher at the University of Michigan, and has conducted independent research on cybersecurity and security cooperation with Northrop Grumman and National Defense University.