

Peter Quaranto

Peter Quaranto works as the Senior Advisor for Peace and Security in the Department of State's Office of U.S. Foreign Assistance Resources (F). In this capacity, Peter leads analytical, research, and planning efforts to shape the strategic direction of U.S. foreign assistance toward addressing violent conflict and promoting security.

Peter spearheaded the U.S. government's Stabilization Assistance Review \(SAR\): A Framework for Maximizing the Effectiveness of U.S. Resources to Stabilize Conflict-Affected Areas (2018) and is currently leading the SAR's implementation. Peter also led the Strategic Prevention Project: Assessing the Role of Foreign Assistance in Preventing Violent Conflict (2019): a State-USAID initiative to identify ways to better target foreign assistance to priority fragile states to reduce the risk and severity of conflict.

Peter previously held positions at the State Department in the Bureaus of Counterterrorism and African Affairs as well as the Office of the U.S. Special Envoy for Sudan. On behalf of the State Department, Peter oversaw and coordinated the U.S. strategy to mitigate and end the threat posed by the Lord's Resistance Army (LRA) in central Africa from 2011-2014.

Prior to working at the Department of State, Peter worked as a Legislative Assistant for the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on African Affairs. As a Marshall Scholar, Peter received Masters degrees from the University of Oxford and University of Bradford. He studied as an undergraduate at the University of Notre Dame.
