Gerald (Jerry) Leverich
Senior Intelligence Analyst
Director, Operational Environment Integration
DEPUTY CHIEF OF STAFF, G-2
UNITED STATES ARMY TRAINING AND DOCTRINE COMMAND

Jerry Leverich assumed his current duties as the Director, Operational Environment Integration for the G2 of the U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command (TRADOC) following his retirement from the Army in February 2005. In his current capacity, he leads, and is responsible for providing intelligence and operational environment advice and considerations to a wide variety of analytic products for the TRADOC G-2 focused on defining the operational environment, threats and their implications. The directorate provides TRADOC with multi-disciplined intelligence assessments, briefings and reports required to facilitate training, leadership development, material acquisition and doctrine/concept development for the U.S. Army. Because of his extensive threat background, Leverich has served as a core member of the Army's Russia New Generation Warfare study and the team that developed the threat underpinnings of Multi Domain Operations.

A career intelligence officer, Leverich retired as a senior all-source intelligence warrant officer for over 22 years on active duty. He served in a wide variety of intelligence assignments culminating as the senior intelligence warrant officer to the US Army Pacific (USARPAC), G2 from 2002 to 2005.

During his military career, Leverich held key intelligence assignments from battalion to Corps; at the tactical, operational, joint and strategic level including assignments at the Defense Intelligence Agency, the Pentagon and among many embassies in Latin America. His overseas assignments include Korea, Germany and Hawaii. He served in Operations, Desert Shield/Desert Storm, Uphold Democracy, and as part of US Army, Europe (FWD) in Tazsar, Hungary, where he supported the Implementation Force (IFOR) and Stability Force (SFOR) in Bosnia Herzegovina, and supported Operation Enduring Freedom -Philippines (OEF-P).

Leverich graduated from Excelsior University in 2007 with a Bachelor of Arts. He earned a Master of Science from Redlands University in 2009. He has completed the Army's Advanced Course at the Army Management Staff College, and has received a Strategic Leadership certificate from the Darden Business School Executive program at the University of Virginia. He is a mentor and graduate of TRADOC's Senior Leader Development Program.
