

Thomas Sherlock, Ph.D.

Thomas Sherlock is a professor of political science at the United States Military Academy, West Point. He received his doctorate in political science from Columbia University and teaches courses on comparative politics, democracy and democratization, comparative political institutions, international security, nationalism and populism, and the politics of the post-Soviet region. His book, Historical Narratives in the Soviet Union and Post-Soviet Russia, was published in an expanded, translated edition by Rosspen (Moscow), a leading academic publisher. He is also the co-author of The Fight for Legitimacy: Democracy vs. Terrorism.

Thom has contributed chapters to several edited volumes and his articles have appeared in numerous journals, including Comparative Politics, Post-Soviet Affairs, Washington Quarterly, National Interest, Problems of Communism, Ab Imperio, Communist and Post-Communist Studies, Problems of Post-Communism, Prepodavanie istorii i obshchestvovedeniia v shkole (Russia), and Rossiiia v global'noi politike (Russia). He has written chapters for White Papers on Russia (2019) and China (2019) commissioned by the US Department of Defense.

Thom's opinion pieces have appeared in The Wall Street Journal, the New York Times (international edition), the Washington Post (the Monkey Cage), Valdai Discussion Club (Russia) and other outlets. He has served as a consultant for the Carnegie Council, the Russian Academy of Sciences, the Open Society Foundations (Ukraine), and EUROCLIO in The Netherlands, among other institutions.

Thom frequently conducts field research in post-Soviet space. His current projects include book-length studies on antisemitism and xenophobia in post-Soviet Eurasia; Russian nationalism and political memory; and the role of soft power in an era of great power competition.
